

Beumaris, 42 Freshwater Street

The hard work is done

Finding the best block, building a council-approved shed (with bathroom) and getting house plans approved can prove to be a difficult process. Well, luckily, it's all been done for you with this perfectly positioned shed.

A lot of thought has gone into the development of this block, with the 14 x 6.5m shed positioned in the SW corner of the block, ensuring it doesn't obstruct the view from your home when you decide to build (STCA). The shed has a battery-ready solar system and is divided in half, with one half being lined. The tanks are concealed behind the shed and the septic tank is all ready for the house to also be connected.

There is a small stand of ironbark gums still on the block, and the obvious location for the future solar-passive home has fantastic coastal views. All this is just a 500m walk to one of the best surf breaks on the coast.

Beumaris is a long-time favourite family holiday area of the East Coast, gaining in
