Big on Space, Storage & Potential - The Ultimate Family & Lifestyle Property

If you've been searching for a home that has space for everything (the family, the toys, the garden, the workshop, and maybe even a side-hustle selling avocados) then this one might just tick every box for you.

From the street, the solid single storey construction gives off that "forever home" feeling, but it's what's hiding behind the gates that's the real game changer. The double remote garage is just the start, there's also double gate access leading to a massive undercover area designed for the big stuff. We're talking an oversized boat, a caravan, or both.

Out the back, there's a substantial shed ready for tools, projects, or storage, plus lush, established gardens that keep things private and green year round.

Step inside and the first thing you'll notice is that this home doesn't feel tired. It's tiled throughout for low-maintenance living, the bedrooms have fresh carpets underfoot, and the layout actually works.

A separate lounge for downtime, a generous dining space, and a large functional kitchen perfectly positioned to overlook the oversized patio and leafy backyard.

The four bedrooms are properly spacious, not the kind where you're squeezing in a bed and hoping for the best.

The main suite is very generous, with a walk-in wardrobe and a well-sized ensuite that still feels fresh.

Skylights and LED lighting keep things bright, while solar panels work quietly in the background to keep power bills in check.

And yes, out the front is quite possibly the largest avocado tree in existence. It's not often I suggest a buyer could start a produce business to help pay off their mortgage, but in this case… well, the option's there.

Big on space, big on storage, big on potential, this is the kind of home that works as hard as you do.
