The Waterfront Lifestyle...

Mornings begin on the terrace as the sun rises across the water.

Launch a kayak from your waterfront, host long lunches overlooking the creek, or take the boat out to explore the surrounding waterways.

As evening arrives, watch the light soften across the national park from your balcony in a setting that feels far removed from the city.

Yet shopping and services are close by in Terrey Hills, while the coastal villages of Mona Vale and the wider Northern Beaches are only a short drive away.

The Home...

Designed by architect Tom Simmat, the residence is oriented to maximise its waterfront position and natural outlook.

Light filled living areas open to expansive terraces that capture panoramic water and bushland views.

The home spans two levels, with the main living areas designed for convenient single level living and additional accommodation below for family or guests.

Features include:

- North west facing deep waterfront position
- Expansive entertaining terraces overlooking the water
- Sandstone landscaping and established gardens
- Versatile boatshed with deep water access
- Resident mooring opportunity
- Oversized drive in garage with internal access

A Rare Sydney Waterfront Opportunity...

Absolute waterfront homes in this location are tightly held and seldom offered to the market.

After decades of ownership, this deceased estate must now be sold, presenting buyers with the opportunity to secure a deep waterfront property within a national park setting, yet still within Sydney.

Why Cottage Point Is So Special...

Hidden within the waterways of Ku-ring-gai Chase National Park, Cottage Point is one of Sydney's most peaceful waterfront communities.

Surrounded by bushland and sparkling waterways, it offers a rare sense of privacy and connection with nature.

Life here moves at a gentler pace...

- Mornings begin with birdsong and water views.
- Boats glide past instead of traffic.
- Neighbours greet each other by name.

Enjoy lunch at the iconic Cottage Point Inn, paddle across the creek at sunrise, or watch the changing light over Coal and Candle Creek.

With only a small number of homes and no through traffic, Cottage Point remains one of Sydney's most tranquil waterfront enclaves.

For those who value privacy, nature and lifestyle, there is simply nothing quite like it. Be ready to soothe your soul.
