Storybook Country Retreat

This character-filled country retreat marries old-world charm with modern convenience. Wood panelling, stained glass, and dormer windows lend a storybook feel to the two-story brick house, which was built in the 1980s using modern building techniques to replicate an older heritage style.

Designed in the fashion of a Victorian country cottage such as you might find in the Cotswolds, the 149m² three-bedroom house has been relocated to the charming township of Peel Forest and situated to take advantage of the idyllic surrounds, including views of Little Mount Peel.

Step in to discover a striking entryway, with stained glass windows and wooden wainscoting. The spacious downstairs includes a living/dining area with an adjoining kitchen, while French doors open to a separate lounge. A WC and laundry are also found downstairs, while a consented fireplace and heat pump in the main living area keep the space cosy in winter. Upstairs, three double bedrooms overlook the grounds, with striking
