More Space, More Sky, Less Compromise

Positioned on the top floor of The Jade, this corner apartment offers something many apartment buyers are chasing but rarely find. Space that feels comfortable, natural light from multiple directions, and enough separation to make apartment living feel easy.

At 91sqm internally, the layout avoids the usual squeeze that can happen with larger apartment designs. The living area sits at the centre of the home, opening onto the balcony and drawing in light throughout the day.

The kitchen has been designed to be used, not just looked at. An island bench anchors the space, creating extra preparation room, additional storage, and somewhere people naturally gather. The breakfast bar, microwave nook and ducted rangehood all help keep the kitchen practical without compromising on space.

All three bedrooms are generously sized, with built-in robes and enough room to comfortably accommodate more than just a bed. The main bedroom includes a large ensuite, while the second bathroom services the remaining bedrooms with ease.

Timber-look flooring through the living areas keeps things low maintenance, while carpet in the bedrooms softens the private spaces.

Being a corner apartment also brings an added sense of privacy. More natural light, fewer shared walls, and a layout that feels a little more removed from the rest of the building.

The Jade itself has quickly become one of Gungahlin's more recognised developments. Completed in 2021 by POD Projects and built by Core Development.

Residents have access to an outdoor pool, gym, rooftop gardens, BBQ areas and pizza ovens.

The rooftop spaces are particularly impressive, with views stretching across Gungahlin, Yerrabi Pond and toward the surrounding hills.

And then there's the location.

Yerrabi Pond sits directly across the road, with walking trails, open green space with views of Yerrabi Pond, the Eastern mountain range and Gungahlin CBD. The Gungahlin Town Centre has cafés, restaurants, supermarkets and light rail, all within walking distance.

For downsizers wanting space without the maintenance, families looking for apartment living without sacrificing a bedroom, or buyers simply wanting a little more room than most apartments offer, this one sits in a category of its own.
