lowset brick exterior and a welcoming front porch that sets the stage for a complete interior transformation. The entry opens into an expansive living area providing a generous footprint that serves as the heart of the home. This space flows naturally into a dedicated dining and kitchen zone, offering a practical layout that is ripe for a modern, open-plan redesign. To the side of the main living hub, you will find three well-proportioned bedrooms serviced by a central family bathroom.

Moving through the dedicated laundry toward the rear of the home with direct external access, the true scale of the 655m² level allotment becomes clear. The backyard is a massive blank canvas, featuring a separate garden shed for additional storage. This deep, flat block provides an exceptional opportunity for future capital growth through the addition of a granny flat, subject to council approval, which could significantly increase rental yields or accommodate a multi-generational family. A single carport sits conveniently to the side of the residence, ensuring off-street parking is already in place.

Beyond the boundary of this large block, you are situated within easy walking distance of the local train station, ensuring a seamless commute for residents or future tenants as well as proximity to local shops, restaurants, and schools.

This high-growth pocket of Kingston provides a rare blend of suburban space and urban connectivity, making it a standout choice for those looking to land-bank or flip a solid property. With the house vacant and ready to go, you can begin your project the moment the keys are in your hand.
