

26 Slim Dusty Circuit, Moncrieff

Its a view just for you

There's something about this house that just works. It's a suburb known for its space, its calm, and its connection to everything Gungahlin has to offer. Schools, parks, walking trails and shops are all close by - but here at 26 Slim Dusty Circuit, it's what sits behind the home that truly sets it apart.

Backing directly onto reserve, this is a home where nature becomes part of your everyday. Mornings feel slower, evenings settle quietly, and there's a sense of openness that's hard to find. Elevated to capture it all, the home takes in sweeping 180-degree views across Gungahlin, stretching out toward Black Mountain and beyond - a view that shifts with the light and never really gets old.

Inside, the home feels considered from the moment you walk through. It's modern, refined, and designed to make daily life feel easy. There's space to come together and space to step away, with multiple living areas that adapt whether the house is full or you're simply enjoying a quiet moment. The bedrooms are well positioned, offering privacy without losing connection, and the overall feel is one of balance - nothing overdone, just a home that works.

At the centre, the kitchen brings everything together. It's both functional and inviting, flowing seamlessly into the living and dining so that everyday life happens without interruption. The addition of a butler's pantry - complete with integrated microwave and room for appliances and storage - keeps the main space clean while giving you that extra layer of practicality that makes a real difference.

The three-car garage is where this home really starts to separate itself. It's not just for parking - it's for people who need space. Whether that's for cars, tools, weekend projects or something more creative, it opens up options that most homes simply don't offer. Combined with excellent storage throughout, it's a home that understands how life actually looks behind the scenes. The garage extends seamlessly through to the backyard, opening onto a solid slab that adds valuable extra space. It also doubles as your own private basketball court-perfect for a quick shoot-around or everyday fun.

And then there's the outdoors. Not just a backyard, but a setting. With reserve directly behind you, there are no immediate rear neighbours - just open space, fresh air and a sense of privacy that's becoming harder to come by. It's the kind of place where kids can explore a little further, where entertaining feels easy, and where you can simply step outside and breathe.

This is an elevated home in every sense, modern, considered, and ready for someone to walk in and make it their own, all while enjoying a position that will always be hard to replicate.
