To the right of the entry is a generous bedroom with a ceiling fan, which flows through to another double sized bedroom. To the left, bedroom three sits alongside a study or office space, providing flexibility for families or those working from home.

Towards the rear of the home, a spacious country style kitchen offers a freestanding oven with gas cooktop, ample cupboard storage and a walk in pantry area with room for a large fridge. A fourth bedroom adjoins the kitchen, also fitted with a ceiling fan. The bathroom is located at the back of the home and includes a bathtub with overhead shower and a vanity with plenty of storage.

Outside, a good sized patio overlooks a huge fenced yard ideal for children and pets along with a brick workshop and an additional smaller fenced section beyond. The property is not currently connected to mains water or sewer; however, these services are expected to extend further along as nearby estates continue to expand.

Beyond the fenced backyard lies an enormous stretch of land with endless possibilities. Whether you choose to retain and build, subdivide in the future, or simply landbank until development progresses further up the road, the long term potential here is undeniable. Securing a property of this scale now will be considerably more affordable than once sewer and water infrastructure reach this part of the corridor.

This home is currently tenanted on a periodic lease at $600 a week
