Location | History | Potential

On offer to the market for the first time in over 40 years, this beautiful Queenslanders sits right in the heart of Yungaburra and is ready for its next chapter.

As the home marks its 100-year anniversary, it carries a rich history. Originally used by the Department of Main Roads during the construction of the Gillies Highway, the property later served as lodging for men during the Second World War, before becoming a much-loved family home in the 1950s.

Filled with vintage charm and everything you'd expect from a true Queenslanders, the home features beautiful timber floors, timber walls and soaring high ceilings that create an immediate sense of character. The expansive living area and kitchen flow seamlessly out to the outdoor entertaining space, making it ideal for relaxed family living or hosting friends.

Set on a private quarter-acre block, the established trees and gardens create the feeling of your own secluded oasis - all while being right in the middle of town. The productive garden includes an impressive selection of fruit trees: mulberry, pineapple, dragon fruit, jaboticaba, bananas, lemon and monstera deliciosa (fruit salad tree).
